in caring for the soldiers and providing for the resoldiers and providing for the resoldiers and providing for the soldiers and providing for the reduced to the border, according to a support to Secretary Baker later, embodying several important suggestions looking to an immediate simplification of the mechanics of army supplies.

The State Department at Washington August 18 requested the American consultant Hongkong to send full decipies and providing for their welfare.

He said he would make a written report to Secretary Baker later, embodying to several important suggestions looking to an immediate simplification of the mechanics of army supplies. movement of all of the District militia quoted on the subject, nevertheless they felt quite sure that the militia of the District, or so much of it as is now at Camp Ordway, would be on the way to the border within two weeks. There is a feeling that the Eastern Department cannot delay any longer Department cannot delay any longer action of some kind with respect to the troops now remaining at the Fort Myer mobilization camp. With reports at the departmental headquarters from Gen. Harvey, commanding the camp, and Capt. Horace I's Hobbs. the United States mustering officer for the District troops, showffig the District troops ready and reasonably well equipped, it is pointed out that it is time for a showdown.

There will be little difficulty now in keeping the organization at minimum

There will be little difficulty now in keeping the organization at minimum strength. From now on there will be few discharges on account of expiration of enlistment. The most of these occur in August because of the fact that a great many men enter the guard just before the period of the annual encampments, which are usually held in August. The War Department forbids any further discharges on account of dependent relatives and refuses to let out the students. These are about the only classes of discharge which would in any way affect the troops at Camp Ordway.

ed as soon as positive orders to entrain are received.

The troops themselves have never been in better shape. They are well driled, well trained, hardened to field service and up to the mark in service firing. They have been through all of the details of field firing, except, of course, being actually under the guns of the enemy. They have fired at targets and have worked out field problems in a way that brought praise from thone who observed the operations.

All these facts, taken in connection with assurances received from the War Department that the District troops would actually see service on the border before they were returned to their home stations to be mustered out, it is cited by high ranking officers, point to an early movement of the District troops at Camp Ordway to the Mexican border.

Should the predictions of the officers prove well founded and orders are received for the movement, it would take several days to arrange the transportation and prepare to entrain. It will be a big job to break this permanent camp and load all of the equipment on the cars, especially in view of the fact that the organizations have not received their quota of animals for use in transportation.

Optimism has made great advances over

Optimism has made great advances over the pessimism of the past few weeks among both officers and men. Although there seems to be little direct information available as to a transfer, observers can readily see a change among the men, and some of the enthusiasm of the early days in the camp soon after the mobilization is beginning again to be manifested.

Washington Railway and Electric Outing at Glen . Echo Park.

Members of the newly organized Washington Railway and Electric Athletic Association, their families and talion, 3d Infantry, was the senior of ficer present last night, and was in command of the camp.

There is nothing on the program for today except liberty for most of the men. Of course, those who will remain in camp will prepare for a number of visitors. From reveille until "taps" the men will be allowed to go and come without a written pass, and only after that hour will they be challenged by the sentries.

Although tomorrow is a legal holiday and it is the custom to release troops on that day, the District troops at Camp Ordway will be required to put in half a day's drill as usual. There will be no holiday for them in the morning, but in the afternoon they will be released for pleasure. Many of them are planning to go with their friends and relatives to nearby resorts and help them celebrate.

The three battalions of infantry will arrange their own drills for tomorrow. The whole regiment will not go out in a body. It is probable that the battalion commanders will have a short road march and then dismiss their men for the day.

The 3d Infantry Band was sent last night to furnish music for the relief lawn party.

Washington Railway and Electric Athletic Association, their families and tried association, their families and friends more than 2,000 strong, held their first field day at Glen Echo Park yesterday.

A long series of athletic events, all of the attractions of the resort and an old-fashioned basket party made up the program that continued from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until such time last night as they saw fit to return home.
